

Mr. MORI Takayuki

Professor Emeritus,
University of Marketing And Distribution Sciences

With his long and wide experience at the Mitsui O.S.K. Lines, Ltd, a Japanese shipping company, he also served as a lecturer at the Tokyo University of Marine Science and Technology, and Aoyama Gakuin University, from 2005 to 2006.

After he retired from the company in 2006, he was appointed as a Professor of the Faculty of Commerce, University of Marketing And Distribution Sciences, and specialized in the field of logistics. In his career as a professor, he concurrently served in some universities including Thailand, Visiting Professor at Thammasat University in 2010, Visiting Professor at Kobe University from 2010 to 2017, and Special Lecturer at Mae Fah Luang University from 2015.

In 2021, he was appointed as the Professor Emeritus at the University of Marketing And Distribution Sciences, and his research focuses are Logistics in Asia especially Cross Border Logistics among India and Indo-China Peninsula, Halal Logistics, Cold Chain Logistics, and Maritime Logistics.